ADAM PARK HOTEL

After the second successful ACSD symposium and the 4th meeting of FASC organized in Morocco, the Moroccan Society of Analytical Chemistry for Sustainable Development (AMCADD) welcome you to the third symposium on analytical chemistry for sustainable development (ACSD 2016) and the 35th Meeting of union of arab chemists. This symposium is entirely dedicated to recent developments of analytical chemistry and related applications and will cover the usual aspects of analytical chemistry during two days of the conference. The symposium intends to attract papers dealing with recent development in the field of analytical sciences in general. It intends also to attract attention of young scientist to fast developing areas in analytical sciences. The symposium aims at bringing together researchers, scientists, engineers, and students to exchange and share their experiences, new ideas, and research results about all aspects of Analytical chemistry. The program of the conference are now available.

Topics: Symposium topics include

1. Emerging techniques in analytical science and Materials analysis
2. Electroanalysis
3. Bioanalysis, Pharmaceutical, and bioanalytical techniques
4. Food and Environmental analysis
5. Nanotechnology and water treatment...

Call for abstracts: A major part of the meeting will be oral and poster contributions from students and researchers. Abstracts for oral and poster presentation are now invited. For full consideration, abstracts must be received by February 21, 2016. Brief abstracts (one page) should be emailed to ACSD2016 Symposium.
